PORTLAND AFTER SALEM FACTORIES
Uses Lower Freight Rates As Bait to Tempt Plants to Make Change

What Salem wants is industries that will give employment to a large number of men. This opinion was voiced at the monthly meeting of the Commercial club last evening, and as an aid to proposed industries, the club will take up the consideration of an "Industrial guarantee fund" of $250,000, after plans that have proved successful in the east.

The plan provides that the business men of the community loan their credit to any industrial firms wishing to come to Salem and who need financial assistance. In other words, if a manufacturing firm wishes to come to Salem and it can convince the business men of its ability to succeed, the loan the firm will need will be endorsed by the business interests of the city, and on the endorsement, the banks will loan money. Manager McDaniels has been working on the plan and secured data and George F. Rodgers spoke in its favor.

Mr. Rodgers sounded an alarm in regard to the industrial possibilities of Salem. He said that Portland firms had been conferring with several of Salem's industries, offering them advantages in Portland, one of them being a better shipping rate. Two industries may leave Salem, and another manufacturing plant is considering another location. "If we hold what we have, we must be on the qui vive," he said. To further investigate the industrial possibilities of Salem, a committee was appointed consisting of William S. Walton, David Eyre, S. B. Elliott, T. B. Kay and George F. Rodgers.

The terminal rate proposition was also discussed. Now that the government owns the locks at Oregon City, it was thought the time was near at hand when Salem would be entitled to water rates. Salem shippers pay 10 cents a hundred more than coast points, although at present all water rates are now suspended as there is scarcely any water competition. To attend to this all important subject president Albert appointed a committee consisting of F. G. Deekbach, Max O. Buren, Chas. K. Spaulding, Charles R. Archer and H. S. Gile.

A report of the financial condition and plans of the Old Postoffice "Home" was read by A. A. Lee. The home has been offered $10,000 by Mr. Brown of Erie, Oregon, provided a like amount be raised. Half of this amount will be subscribed in Oregon and the other half in the city of Salem, and the home representatives came before the Commercial club asking its endorsement. It now accommodates only 14, but as it is in first class financial condition and the prospects good for raising the $10,000 by subscription, it is probable that a $25,000 home will be erected within a few months. There was a general expression of opinion favoring the plans of the home and those soliciting for it will be given a card and the endorsement of the Business Men's League.

Fire completely destroyed the Kunitzer home on the peninsula road six miles east of Salem this morning between 11 and 12 o'clock. Part of the contents were saved. All of the family was at Liberty picking prunes and the fire was discovered by one of the young men of the family returning from Liberty. The fire was probably caused by a defective flue. There was no insurance.

Among those who have been mentioned as a possible candidate for mayor is W. W. Moore of the Moore furniture company. It is not known whether Mr.

Moore has any political bee buzzing in his hat and up to a late hour this afternoon no word had been received as to whether he would consider a proposition.

The shortage of cars is not especially lamented by merchants in the valley in one respect and that is, the shipment of a car load of catalogs from a Chicago mail order house has been delayed as the railroad companies out of Chicago were too busy filling steel orders and shipping portable goods to give any car for catalogs that will keep a few weeks without spilling.

Come on with your prosperity clover yields. Theo. Herron, living on the Garden road will average about $34 an acre for his red clover and there are others not far from Salem who claim to do even better. While the clover acreage is small this year, the yield is large and all of a fine quality.

Notice of candidacy has been filed at the office of the city recorder by C. O. Rice for city treasurer and by E. E. Cooper for chief of police.

This is worth reading. About ten days ago sugar declined 75 cents a hundred, then within a few days recovered 25 cents a hundred and the bunch comes along today that before the end of the week, the eastern refineries will announce another recovery of 15 cents a hundred. In this case, the recovery means sugar will cost a lot more than today or tomorrow and the good housewife should buy while the buying is good.

Elks day at the state fair will be next Thursday, Sept. 28, and arrangements are under way by which the average citizen will know that something different from the rest is in-town. Letters received this morning by E. Cooke Patton from the McMinnville lodge gives assurances that the McMinnville antlers will come over 50 string. The Oregon City boys of the B. P. O. E. kind write Mr. Patton that at least 50 will attend and from Albany another 50 will be on hand to celebrate. Portland will send half a thousand. The local lodge will treat the boys from out of town right and arrangements will be made for serving lunch at the club Thursday noon. The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks and others who consider themselves the best people on earth will assist in the afternoon program at the fair grounds.

Members of the Salem Floral society are requested to bring all potted plants intended for the fair exhibit to the Commercial club Saturday or Sunday. Cut flowers should be brought to the club Monday or to the display at the grounds. If unable to deliver the flowers, notify the secretary, Ivan G. Martin.

Notice is given to auto drivers by Chief of Police Welsh that the amendment to the ordinance regulating the speed of automobiles goes into effect today. All automobiles passing street cars which have stopped to receive or discharge passengers are required to run at a rate not exceeding six miles an hour and to stop when necessary.

The funeral of E. V. Springer will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be private. Burial will be in the Springer family lot in the Old Fellowship cemetery. The remains of Mr. Springer who disappeared mysteriously from the Marion hotel in January of 1915 were found last Friday on the McClinch farm, eight miles north of Salem. While one of the men working on the farm was gathering drift wood about 100 yards from the river bank, he discovered the skeleton lodged in the lower forks of a tree. The Polk county coroner was at once notified and the skeleton taken to Dallas. Through the keys found in the trousers pocket, parts of the clothing and dental work done by Dr. Mark Skiff, the remains were positively identified.

The various republican clubs of the city have rented the room at 115 North High street formerly occupied by the Style shop and will use it as headquarters during the coming campaign. The formal opening will be Monday afternoon when Congressman Hawley will speak before the Woman's Marion County Republican Study club, discussing national issues. The Woman's Marion County Republican Study club now has about 80 members.

Seymour Jones, director of the agricultural department of the Commercial club said last night that if Providence would just favor this valley with good weather for another week or so, Marion county would put on a corn show this fall that will surprise the natives as well as the cronkers who still are so far behind the times as to even think corn cannot be grown in the Willamette valley.

The admission is one fifty and the money received from admissions will be given as prizes to the winners.

Eat at the Methodist cafeteria, surrounded by flags and patriotic decorations.

The government crop report for Oregon, issued September 19, says hops have been picked and the average yield and quality are fair. The shipping of fall apples in carload lots has commenced, and most all fruit is in fine condition. Prune drying is progressing rapidly. The smaller orchards are about through picking while the large ones are only half done. The crop is large and the prunes are of good quality.

The ladies of First M. E. church will serve dinner and supper during the fair at the Methodist cafeteria. Good home cooking.

Speaking of the mail order business, there is a small mail order house right in Salem, business it good and it is all cash. D. A. White & Sons have been in the mail order business for several years and last year sent out 4,000 catalogs, every one printed in Salem. Yesterday was a sample day as a cash order amounting to $70 was received from a point near Olympia, Wash., and another for $25.50 from Port Townsend, besides smaller orders.

The Oregon state hospital will exhibit at the state fair an ear of corn, the largest ever exhibited in this part of the country. It is three feet long and eight inches wide and will be shown in the agricultural building. There have been many stories about new corn will grow in the Willamette valley, but since the season has been so favorable after the late start, there doesn't seem to be any limit. Anyhow, that ear of corn is now ready for exhibit.

Company M Coming Monday Afternoon

Captain Gehlhar telephoned Mrs. W. O. Asselin, president of the Salem Patriotic League this morning that the company would be the first to be mustered out Monday morning and that the boys would surely arrive in the city Monday afternoon.

As this is official announcement, the League is going ahead with its plans to give the soldier boys a rousing reception, and knowing the weakness of the soldier, will not only give them the glad hand, but feed them with genuine chicken pies and home made cooking at a banquet to be given at the armory Monday evening at 6 o'clock.

After the banquet, there will be a general reception and everybody in town is invited to come in and give them a regular home-coming greeting.

Marion Hotel Forced to Turn Away Guests

Business is good at the Marion hotel. In fact it is doing so much business that many have been turned away every night this week and according to Manager Miller, he has been obliged to refuse reservations for hundreds for next week during the state fair.

The Hunt Club of Portland yesterday wired for accommodations for 25 for three days and could not be accommodated by Mr. Miller and 15 others interested in the horse show could not be given rooms.

Just as a help to the hotel, Mr. Miller suggests that those who have rooms that can be rented during the state fair, notify the hotel and these rooms will be assigned just the same as regular accommodations. A regular room bureau has been established.

The third floor of the addition to the hotel will be ready for guests Sunday and the fourth floor Friday. Another addition to the service of the hotel is the employment of Mrs. Leach who for the past four years has been housekeeper of the Imperial hotel, Portland.

Articles of incorporation were filed at the office of Corporation Commissioner Schullerman this morning by the Sutherland Quicksilver Mining and Refining company, Sutherland, of which the capital stock is $6,000, and by the Astoria Construction company, Astoria, capitalized for $4,500. Supplementary articles of incorporation were filed by the Dulmaky-Manley Auto company, Portland, changing its name to Manley Auto company. A resolution dissolving the Oregon Soda company, Portland, was also filed.

After breathing the air of unalloyed liberty for 24 hours, two boys from the Oregon state training school, were taken in hand by Mr. Davidson near Marion this morning at 9 o'clock and are once again in charge of Mr. Hale, superintendent of the school. While working in the field yesterday morning George Hellecks from McMinnville and Ed Johnson of Baker City decided to depart. Last night they broke into Moore Bros. store at Turner and helped themselves to two complete outfits of clothing, leaving their old suits in the store. But when Mr. Davidson of Marion saw them this morning, the chapter ended. Hellecks has been in the school two months and Johnson two months and it was the boy who had been there two months that engineered the escape.

This is a potato story. Mangis Bros. gave out the information this morning that the potato shipping market has not opened yet but that the prospects are good for a fair price and a big crop. The good price will depend entirely on whether the potatoes are graded right. There is a disposition of some farmers to mix the big and little together, but to compete with the Idaho and Washington shippers, the grading must be done right and it is in this one thing that the Idaho and Washington farmers are wiser than the Oregon growers. Their grading is absolutely right, can be depended on and for this reason the commission men feel justified in paying the top prices. Just at present the market price is around 90 cents a bushel to the growers for full size rounded potatoes.
